MANY GRIDIRON BATTLES TO-DAY

Yale-Princeton Contest in Tigertown.

ELIS MAY COME BACK STRONG

Harvard Meets Dartmouth-Pennsylvania vs. Michigan-Navy Plays Carlisle Indians, Who May Prove Troublesome-Cornell Stacks Up Against Chicago in Annual Battle.

More big games are on to-day's football schedule than on any Saturday so far, and the biggest of these is the Yale-Princeton game. Other games may be harder fought and more worth seeing, but none will attract as much attention. It's Yale vs. Princeton, you see; and whether one or both be weak or strong there always is the great rivalry and great interest. Yale has done so poorly this season that the Harvard-Dartmouth or the Pennsylvania-Michigan games may be more of a battle, and though Yale makes one of her traditional braces and "comes back like a thousand of bricks," she has so far to come that the supply of bricks may run short. Princeton looks to be better than usual this fall and that makes Yale's task all the harder.

Two important sectional games are to be fought—Pennsylvania vs. Michigan and Cornell vs. Chicago. Pennsylvania has all the better of Michigan on public performances, but football followers remember that Michigan didn't look like much last season, yet surprised the community by beating the Quakers. If Michigan has any scoring power it is what has been developed in practice, not shown in games. Cornell and Chicago have both done poorly against strong opponents, and the outcome of their game is very uncertain.

The Navy will take on a troublesome foe in the Carlisle Indians. A Princeton victory is expected by most people, and Yale is a long shot, not because Princeton looks up stronger in a man-for-man comparison, but because Princeton has shown much better form all season, has done better as a team, has developed better along definite lines, and is not beset with that uncertainty as to what she really can do as Yale. Injuries to Yale men, which have prevented the same eleven men from taking the field two days in succession, and the reported coaching methods which were said to lack harmony and to be insufficiently adapted to the new game, have been enlarged upon at length and need not be repeated here. Within the last week Yale has made a heroic effort to find herself, but it is a stupendous job, and unless it has been done, individual form will have to be tremendous to make up for deficiencies in united efforts.

W. H. Corbin, who has done some coaching at Yale this fall, came to town to-night, and from the way he talked he is not very hopeful of to-morrow's result. He said: "In the last week a new offense has been developed, but three weeks of the season were lost. In these three weeks, when the time should have been used for definite plans of offense, too much attention was given to minor details which didn't amount to much. There is no doubt that Walter Camp was not consulted enough. The great question is whether the work of the last week came in time."

TECH'S GREAT PUNTER.

CAPT. TEW.

EVERS ACCEPTS NAVY OFFER.

Cubs' Second Sacker Employed by Baseball Team.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—John J. Evers has decided to coach the Annapolis Naval Academy baseball team next spring. He reached a definite decision on this point to-day and immediately sent a telegram to Manager Chance at Glendora, Cal., telling him of his intention. The work at Annapolis will keep him there until the middle of June, and he will be able to join the Cubs and start playing as soon as the Middles have finished their schedule.

"I wouldn't be able to play much before that time, anyway," he said to-day, "for it would be taking chances with my broken leg, which will not be mended enough to permit of my playing any earlier."

The leg, by the way, will be taken out of the cast within two weeks. Evers will go to Annapolis as soon as the call for baseball players is out.

Arthur Devlin Signs Contract.

New York, Nov. 11.—Third Baseman Arthur Devlin signed with the New York National League club yesterday for 1911. He is the fourth player to fall in line. The other Giants who have signed are Devore, Shafer, and Meyers.

CENTRAL'S ELEVEN BEATS TECHNICAL

O Streeters Win High School Football Championship.

REUTER'S LONG RUN FEATURE

Machinists Put Up Plucky Fight, but Are Outweighed and Out-classed—Tew's Punting the Best Seen in Many Years—Big Crowd and Splendid School Spirit Shown.

Central High School's football team defeated its old-time rival, Technical, by 6 to 0 yesterday afternoon before 3,000 cheering students, thereby winning the interscholastic championship for 1910 and capturing one leg on the Princeton cup trophy.

Fritz Reuter, the Blue and White's crack half back, shot through an opening in the center of Tech's line shortly after the second period and ran 70 yards. He was tackled fiercely from behind by Morris and dropped on Tech's 5-yard mark. From this spot just two rushes carried the ball over, Van Dyne making the touchdown outside the Blacksmith's right tackle. King kicked an easy goal.

As was predicted, Tech put up a plucky fight, and on three occasions had the ball within Central's 10-yard line, but the old smash was lacking and the Maroon and Gray had to relinquish the oval on downs, where it was always punted out of danger.

Contest Cleanly Played.

The contest was remarkably free from rough work. Van Dyne, Central's half back, was disqualified during the latter part of the game for kicking Center Rush Eckendorf in the fleshy part of the thigh. Van Dyne claimed the act was unintentional and apologized to the Tech man after the game, so the incident was of no consequence.

There was no question as to Central's superiority from the time the opening whistle blew. Central had the best team, and in this case the best team won. King, Hamilton, Reuter, and King were the shining lights for the victors. King was a terror to the Blacksmiths, breaking up their plays time and again and pulling down the runner before he could get started.

Morris wrenched his shoulder and did not play during the second half, and his absence greatly weakened Tech. Little Gill and Sinclair did well, and Tew's wonderful punting was easily one of the features of the hard-fought battle.

Tech's Team Greca.

It was a case of too many green men in the Tech line-up. Coach Heox, with the loss of eight veterans from last year's championship eleven, accomplished wonders in rounding out a team the caliber of the one Central defeated yesterday, and deserves the greatest credit in the world.

Central was due to win, as the O Streeters have had to take a back seat for years, and it was just about time for the worm to turn.

The cheering and school spirit displayed by the students from both institutions made the afternoon an enjoyable one for the nonpartisan spectator. Tech and Eastern meet next Wednesday for the final game of the interscholastic series. Line-up and summary:

TAKE NO FARMED PLAYERS.

New England Clubs Put Ban on Big League Men.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 11.—The championship of the New England Baseball League for 1910 was awarded formally to New Bedford at the annual league meeting yesterday. Votes were passed adopting a salary limit of $2,000 and forbidding the farming of players from the National, American and Class A leagues.

J. J. O'Donnell, of Worcester, was elected to represent the league at the meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues at Chicago on November 15. President T. H. Murman will also attend as a member of the association.

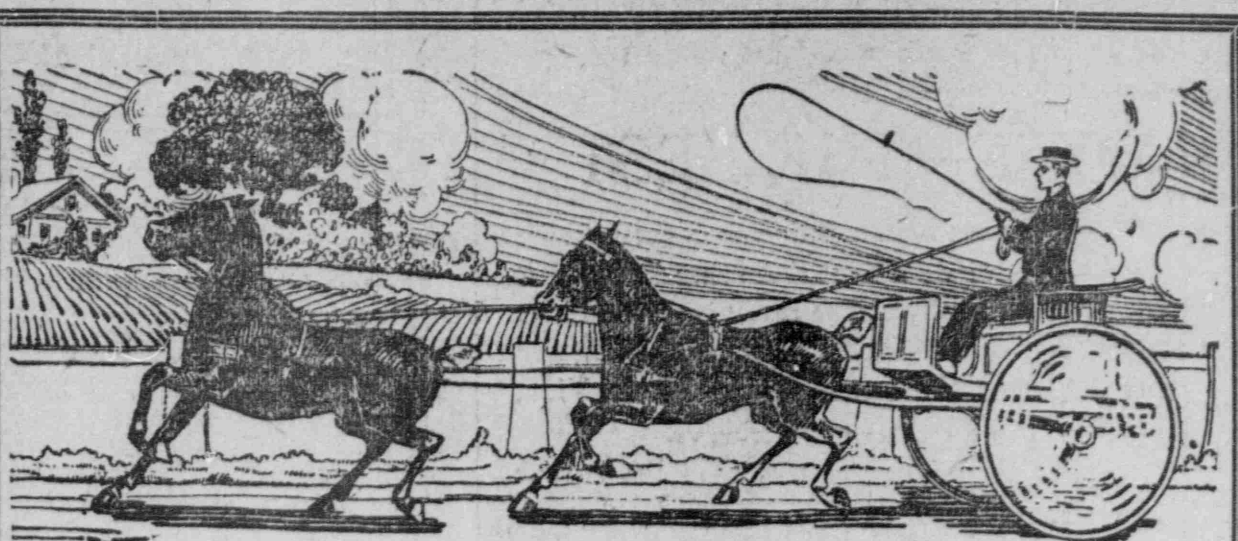

There was some discussion as to the opening date of the New England League next season, but no decision being reached, the matter was left to the schedule committee.

Regents Defeat Section Team.

The Regent football team met and defeated the football team representing Section C of Tech on the Sixteenth and R street grounds yesterday afternoon, 20 to 0. The Section C outwitted the Regents considerably, but the lighter team held them, only letting them gain first down once. The features of the game were the end puns made by Coggins, who gained 10 yards nearly every time and four touchdowns from half the field. Fraber also starred for the Regents. Mr. Zappone, of Business, was the referee.

Mount St. Mary's on Top.

Emmitsburg, Md., Nov. 11.—Mount St. Mary's to-day completely overpowered Lebanon Valley by a score of 62 to 0. Flanagan's line bucking was the feature.

THE SORT OF ADVERTISING THAT CARRIES CONVICTION

The best advertising put out by the house of Parker-Bridget is "P. B. QUALITY Clothes." Every Suit and every Overcoat bearing the "P. B." label carries the sort of conviction that not only wins the friendship of the wearer, but the admiration of every man who sees it.

Any ad-writer with a "Billiken" imagination can write "quality-and-character" into clothes that possess none. P. B. Clothes themselves are the clinching argument that has made the name "Parker-Bridget" synonymous with "QUALITY" in apparel for Men and Boys.

See the new and exclusive effects in Browns, Grays, and dark tone mixtures—ready for your inspection in the crystal cabinets.

The price range in Suits begins at $10 for the young men's models—on up to $40 for the finest imported and domestic fabrics.

THREE FAVORITES RETURN WINNERS

Bud Mars Again Attraction at Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 11.—Bud Mars was again the main attraction at the races this afternoon, but because of the high wind he was not able to carry out his programme. After the fifth race had been run he attempted to run a mile against the horse My Southern Boy, who was ridden by Furest, but was unable to secure control of the machine, and after going about five furlongs, at which time he was away ahead of the horse, he had to bring the machine to earth. He said afterward that he was lucky in reaching the ground without a mishap, as he could not control the machine.

About 4,000 persons witnessed the racing to-day, which was interesting, as several of the finishes were of the close order, while three of the favorites were returned winners.
